That the trade relations of Los Angeles and the Hawaiian Islands may be more firmly cemented by means of the liner Great Northern, is the hope expressed in resolutions passed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on November 11, giving that body's formal approval to the excursion to Honolulu and the islands being arranged by the Los Angeles Examiner for the Great Northern's first trip here.

A letter of congratulations and greetings is to be sent to the Honolulu chamber by the Los Angeles body. The last two paragraphs of the resolutions ordering this read as follows: "Whereas, the first steamer of the newly established direct service between Los Angeles and Honolulu will sail from Los Angeles harbor, November 27, bringing about the consummation of the Chamber of Commerce plan for closer trade relations with the Hawaiian Islands and an excursion is being arranged for this initial trip by one of the city's leading newspapers,

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce does hereby extend its heartfelt felicitations to these various enterprises to the end that Los Angeles may be well represented both at Los Angeles Day at the Panama-Pacific exposition and at the arrival in Honolulu of the steamship Great Northern on its maiden voyage in the service designed to cement more firmly our friendly relations with the Hawaiian Islands and that this Chamber of Commerce send a letter of greetings and congratulations to the Chamber of Commerce of Honolulu."

Recent has been busy. Effective work in setting forth the details of Hawaii was also done in Los Angeles November 6 by Emil A. Berndt, chairman of the Promotion Committee, who arrived home today on the Wilhelmina from San Francisco.

While in the southern California metropolis Mr. Berndt was interviewed by the Examiner and made the following statement: "The governor, board of supervisors, Chamber of Commerce, the Ad Club and all the territorial officials will comprise the reception committee. The welcome to be accorded the voyagers will be without comparison. They will receive the fullest measure of our hospitality."

Discussing the significance of the voyage Mr. Berndt said: "Although the Great Northern will leave San Francisco, Los Angeles harbor will be the last port on the American continent which she will leave. From this port to the first point in the islands, which is Hilo, the trip will be made in four and a half days, establishing a new world's record for the trip.

Unit Two Beauty Spots. "This new and direct route will open up a new import and export market for Los Angeles, as well as Hawaii, besides opening the door of Hawaii to the tourists who annually visit southern California. It will couple the progressive spirit of Los Angeles with the progressive spirit of Hawaii and will bring the two beauty spots of the world closer together."

"The Examiner tour, which will be made on the maiden voyage, is to be the feature of the trip, and a hearty reception is awaiting those who make the trip. It is the desire of the Promotion Committee to make the voyage one to be remembered. The people, not only of Honolulu but of all Hawaii, realize that this new steamship line is commercially the best thing that has happened to the islands in 20 years and are preparing a hearty welcome for the vessel."

In its issue of November 7 the Examiner devotes four columns to views of Hawaiian life, showing halftones of native fishermen, hula dancers, and polo makers. A lengthy and detailed description of Hawaiian scenery and the places to be visited in the course of the excursion is also given.

Almost out of fuel oil with only a hundred barrels left, because head winds had made her two days late and compelled her to use more fuel than usual, the Pacific Mail freighter Aztec under charter to the Grace line, arrived at port at 10 last night from Australia and tied up at Pier 17 this morning to take on bunker oil. She sails at 5 o'clock this afternoon for San Francisco.

Capt. C. E. Stewart is her skipper. He was formerly chief officer on the Pacific Mail liner Siberia. Rogers J. Allman, former commander of the China, is the Aztec's chief officer. Her quartermaster is Norman B. Smith, known by customs' officials and shipping men here. He was formerly quartermaster on boats of the American-Hawaiian line.

For the last year, since the Oceanic line discontinued its calls at Pago-Pago on the trip up from Australia, it has not been possible to ship avocados regularly to the mainland, owing to the fact steamer callings have been extremely infrequent.

Before the European war began alligator pears were shipped to San Francisco to a considerable extent from Papeete, Tahiti, but since the Union liner Maruma was withdrawn from the Australia-Tahiti-San Francisco run, and placed in transport use by the British Admiralty, steamers have not called more than once every six weeks.

Avocados are allowed to be shipped to California from the Samoan Islands, as the Mediterranean fly has not infested that part of the South Pacific. Regular calls at Pago-Pago every 21 days by the Oceanic's boats, after November 28, will afford a regular outlet for alligator pears from Samoa, although Hawaiian pears are still tabu because of the fly.

According to Dr. E. M. Ehrhorn, superintendent of entomology at the government nursery here, alligator pears can be shipped to California from the Samoan Islands, provided they are in sealed packages in cold storage, and are not allowed to come in contact with fruit shipped from Hawaii.

Listed to come here for bunker oil is the American steamer Tampico, from San Pedro November 2, for Coquimbó and Valparaiso.

The third coast mail of this week will arrive Friday in the Shinyo Maru from San Francisco. The ship sails the same afternoon for the Orient.

Expected here about December 11 from Yokohama for San Francisco is the T. K. K. Dairen Maru, one of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha's new fleet.

Chief Clerk Richard Bolton of the quartermaster's office is recovering rapidly from his attack of rheumatism. He may leave the Fort Shafter hospital late this week.

Following the Lurline's departure for the coast at 4 o'clock this afternoon, no mail will go to the mainland until November 30, a week from today, when the Chiyu Maru will take a full despatch.

To take fuel oil, the Grace steamer Aztec, which arrived last night from Australia, tied up at Pier 17 today and sails for San Francisco at 5 o'clock this afternoon. She has no cargo for this port.

Discharge of her phosphate rock cargo is progressing today on board the Norse steamer Promise. She was moved from the quarantine wharf to the railroad wharf late yesterday, following fumigation.

Several prominent Honoluluans will return here in the Matsonia December 7. They include John H. Drew and family, E. D. Tenney and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop and Malcolm A. Franklin.

The Oceanic steamer Sierra will be in command of Capt. J. J. Koughan, former first officer on the Sonoma, when she arrives here December 7 on her first voyage under the 21-day schedule to Australia.

At noon tomorrow the T. K. K. South American-Japan liner Kiyu Maru will sail for the Orient, taking 150 tons of freight. There is room for 226 steerage passengers. The Shinyo Maru, due Friday, can take 126.

Reports received here yesterday state that the Federal wireless plant at San Francisco succeeded in establishing communication with the Oceanic steamer Ventura the night of October 8, when the steamer was 445 miles from that port. This exceeds the record of 340 miles made by the Federal's Honolulu station in talking with the Ventura.

Clement R. Sallie, of New York was crushed to death against beams by a descending elevator while at work in the new subway shaft at Old Slip and Front street.

When the Oceanic steamer Sonoma, which left this port late yesterday for Pago-Pago and Sydney, returns here December 28, on her way to the coast, she will be carrying in her ice-house a big consignment of alligator pears (avocados) from the Samoan Islands to San Francisco, to be sold in the Bay City at fancy prices.

Passengers on the steamer brought word yesterday that first-class alligator pears are bringing 75 cents each in San Francisco.

It also became known that a man is now on his way to Pago-Pago for the purpose of buying enough pears to fill a big order which he secured in San Francisco shortly before the Sonoma sailed.

For the last year, since the Oceanic line discontinued its calls at Pago-Pago on the trip up from Australia, it has not been possible to ship avocados regularly to the mainland, owing to the fact steamer callings have been extremely infrequent.

Before the European war began alligator pears were shipped to San Francisco to a considerable extent from Papeete, Tahiti, but since the Union liner Maruma was withdrawn from the Australia-Tahiti-San Francisco run, and placed in transport use by the British Admiralty, steamers have not called more than once every six weeks.

REFERENCE ON SEAMEN'S ACT IS NEW PLAN

That a committee from the National Chamber of Commerce at Washington is working on data in preparation for a referendum vote on the Seamen's Act is the information contained in a letter received this morning from the national headquarters by Raymond C. Brown, local secretary.

Complete data will be secured by about the first of the year, after which it will be referred to the chambers of commerce scattered over the country. The referendum will be put up to a vote of the members in Honolulu.

About January 1 the new pilot boat being built by Jack Young for the territorial pilots is expected to be completed. The craft is under construction by the Inter-Island, and will be 46.3 feet long, 10.3 beam, and 5.6 feet deep. Power will be supplied by a 50 horse power Western Standard gas engine, with a storage tank for distillate holding 300 gallons.

The only changes in the local steamboat inspection office which will be introduced into Congress this winter providing for the creation of a new steamboat district with headquarters at Seattle, pass, will be that the Honolulu office will have to report at Seattle instead of San Francisco. If the new district is formed, Hawaii will be taken out of the first district, in which it now is with California, and be made a part of the new one, which will include Oregon, Washington, Seattle, and the Territory of Hawaii.
